

Programme of the public debate:

What Future for the Norms-Based International Order? Czech and German perspectives

Date: 13th of May 2019

Time: 5 till 7 p.m.

Place: Ovocný trh 5/560, 116 36 Prague 1, Small auditorium of the Karolinum

The norm-based international order has been challenged by the complex agenda of the globalised world and by the three competing great powers – the disruptive power of Russia and the two ordering powers, the United States and the People's Republic of China. The existing multilateral institutions and their member states, the EU and Germany in the first place, are in search of an answer to the challenges. Responding to the new situation needs both deep practical and academic knowledge. The panel discussion will offer both with Gernot Erler introducing the event with a paper based on his newest book on world order and Hanns Maull as well as Jakub Eberle discussing the topic and bringing in their own thoughts and ideas in this regard.

From 16:30	Registration
17:00 – 17:10	Welcome remarks by: Tomáš Nigrin, Director of the Institute of International Studies Anne Seyfferth, Director of the Representation of the Friedrich-Ebert-Stiftung in the Czech Republic
17:10 – 17:40	Opening speech by Gernot Erler
17:40 – 19:00	Debate with Gernot Erler, Hanns Maull and Jakub Eberle Moderation: Dagmar Rychnovská

The debate will be held in English and we will provide interpretation in to German.